Technical analysis

The chart of The Indian Hotels Co. Ltd shows that the stock has triggered a sell signal with bearish momentum in the short term. The price is approaching a key support zone around 646-648. If the stock breaks below this support level, it could signal further downside potential, especially if accompanied by strong volume. On Intraday chart the stock went down of Supertrend support and also trading below 20 EMA. Midcap stocks witnessed selloff today and hence we expect selling pressure in the stock. On the basis of above analysis we recommend to Buy Indian Hotels 650 Put Option.
